Dear Families,
Happy Half Term! In numbers of half terms, we are now half way through this strangest of years. Well done to everyone who has worked hard using Google Classrooms and indeed the children who have accessed school. It has been wonderful to see them and has also made us miss everyone else even more at the same time! We believe there will be some kind of announcement on Monday 22nd February (first day back) regarding schools and the target date of 8th March. Let's hope by then, millions more are vaccinated against COVID and that we have some exciting news. Of course, we are tied to Government advice and must await the green light in terms of everyone's safety and a potential return to school.

Although we have missed major snowfall this week, it has been freezing, (literally.) Due to essential ventilation, school is cold so anyone who is accessing West Meadows, please wrap up very warm! It is distressing to have to see children in many layers in school although a necessary problem during these times. Please have a look at our PSHE website – designed by Mr. Mitchell and available through the main site and the subject list. We shall be writing to you to inform you of the statutory changes and also regarding the Sex and Relationships Education Policy and scheme of work. Do not worry – ALL materials will be shared with parents either in school or virtually after half term and as always, our lovely staff shall deliver all areas of the curriculum with great sensitivity, kindness and love. I hope you caught some of England's magnificent win in India on Channel 4 this week. The second test practically sorts out the whole of my half term holiday! I was planning on going; sadly, travel is practically impossible of course.

Have a lovely week and above all, stay as safe as possible.

ROOOOOOOOT
Along with Mr. Wood I have been captivated by the cricket in India – what a performance by Joe Root. As always, we shall be playing lots of cricket at West Meadows during the rest of the year. Tune in to Channel 4 to watch England on tour. The 4am alarm call has been a bit early for me though!

Maestro On Music
Well done to everyone who has accessed Music on Google Classrooms. Happy Valentines Day to all – especially my postman who has to practise weightlifting in anticipation of all my deliveries!
