Dear Families,
 Another busy week in school – MANY thanks to Mrs. McCormack! We have been studying all things South American and what a week we've had! Dancing, drumming, Art Work and all things creative have really consumed the school and it has been fabulous. Sadly, we haven't had chance to share via an Assembly BUT Twitter has been full of the superb efforts across school so please have a look and share a comment – the children love it. The children look great today! We are all super excited about tonight's big game and I hope you've all enjoyed the football on offer so far – I know that I have. It is wonderful that we have supported Men's Mental Health Week and provided some funding for Prostate Cancer. It will be great to introduce Miss Marsh to staff and parents next week; she is tremendously excited about joining our lovely school. I am also delighted that we have booked several transition days in to our diary so her start is as smooth as is possible. She will bring an enormous amount of knowledge to our school and I know that you will welcome her just as warmly as you did me. Staying with the football theme, it is penalty shootout day next week - I shall have my shooting boots on! I hope that you all have a lovely weekend and enjoy the game tonight. My favourite ever person was Scottish (My Mum) but even I have to say #ComeOnEngland!
